Year 4's Monster Creations: Science Meets Imagination!

Our Year 4 students have been getting creative with their latest science and design project—building their very own monsters that open their mouths using pressure! This exciting activity combined elements of engineering, physics, and a whole lot of imagination.

The children explored how air pressure can be used to create movement. Using simple materials such as syringes, tubing, and cardboard, they designed and built their monstrous creations, each with a mouth that opens and closes when pressure is applied. Through hands-on experimentation, they learned about pneumatics and how air can be used as a force to move objects. It was wonderful to see the children working collaboratively, problem-solving, and testing their designs. Some monsters had sharp, jagged teeth, while others had enormous, gaping jaws ready to chomp! Each creation was unique and reflected the students' creativity and understanding of pressure systems.

This project not only deepened their scientific knowledge but also encouraged teamwork, perseverance, and innovation. Well done, Year 4 – your pressure-powered monsters were a roaring success!
