

Konnichiwa – こんにちは

This week, Malmesbury Park welcomed visitors all the way from Japan. After linking with a teaching school our aim was to share in each other's culture and learn teaching practices. Twenty students worked across Years 1 to 6, teaching greetings, common phrases, origami, calligraphy, karuta and other Japanese games. The children and students were able to discuss the differences and similarities between our school and those in Japan, discovering that both parties love art. The students also observed teaching across the school and interviewed Mrs Smith on education in the UK.

Both the children and students had a wonderful time getting to know each other and learning new skills, and we hope they will be able to visit us again next year.
